BUTTERFLY HEART

by Irene Woo

Irene first shared this pattern in the Official Tat Chat Pattern Book, «Tatting Online», first published as a fund raiser in 1999.

Begin the butterfly in the centre (see diagram). You can add helping loops (magic loops) to any of the rings in the centre or to the first and last chains to hide your threads at the end.

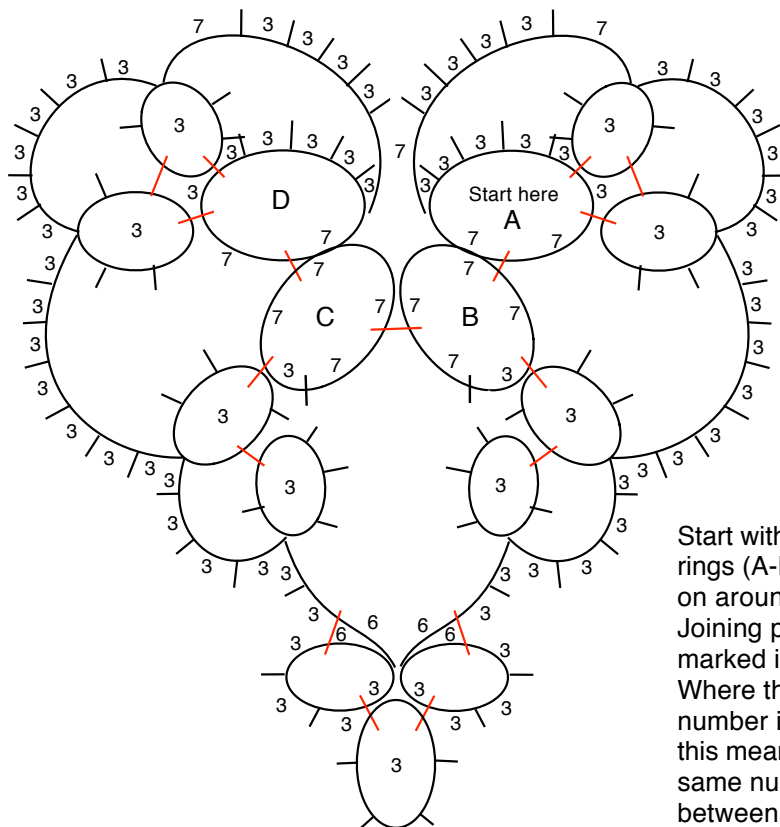

R3(-3)x5, -7-7, dnrw
 R7+7-3-7-7, dnrw
 R7+7-3-7-7, dnrw
 R7+7(-3)x6, rw

C7(-3)x4, -7, rw
 R3-3-3+(to 3rd p of previous R)3-3-3, rw
 C3(-3)x5, rw
 R3-3+(to 4th p of previous ring)3+(to remaining free p of last large ring)3-3-3, rw
 C3(-3)x6, rw
 R3-3-3+(to 3rd p of 3rd large ring)3-3-3, rw
 C3(-3)x3, rw
 R3-3+(to last p of previous ring)3(-3)x3, rw
 C3-3-6, dnrw

Make cloverleaf:

R6+(to last p of previous chain)3(-3)x3, dnrw
 R3+(to last p of previous ring)3(-3)x5, dnrw
 R3+(to last p of previous ring)3(-3)x2, -6, dnrw

Continue working the heart in mirror fashion for the other side.

Start with four centre rings (A-D), then carry on around. Joining picots are marked in red. Where there is only one number inside a ring, this means it is this same number of ds between each picot.
